

My uncle was taken to London to see Christmas lights...

My uncle was taken to London to see Christmas lights, something he has not done in years! He is taken out quite regularly from the home, and seen more, and done more than he would have before being there. The staff and manager are all lovely, caring people who put the residents first every day. My uncle is very happy and contented there.